Important Notice

Preventing Condensation Damage

CONDENSATION IS NOT USUALLY A FAULT IN THE PROPERTY

but generally caused by people failing to heat their homes adequately or not ventilating the property (opening a window) to let out the steam when cooking, bathing or showering etc.

7 Simple Preventative measures

- 1 Each morning, wipe away any moisture from window frames and sills.
- 2 When cooking always leave a window open in the kitchen to allow steam to disperse quickly.
- 3 When bathing or showering always leave a bathroom window open to allow steam to disperse quickly.
- 4 Make sure the extractor fan is switched on and working if one is provided in the property.
- 5 During the winter months leave minimal background heating on all day.
- 6 Open the window if you see it steamed up, or the nearest one that opens, to clear the excess moisture quickly.
- 7 Do not dry wet clothes on radiators as this will cause condensation as well as rust holes in the radiator.

If your smoke alarm continues to have a fault after batteries have been changed or you are having problems with your fire angel please contact our office immediately as this is a fire hazard and would have to be dealt with as a matter or urgency.
